

A new world with new design

October 27th, 2024

Kuroda International Consulting LLC

Takeshi Kuroda

All new technology permits us to create a new world. These are the new societies with new lifestyles.

But an economy creates all these, and we can propose new rules and systems. It expands its reality through national construction and gives the new nations its bases.

These are the redesigning of the nation, and with any country, this transportation and shift reach a new future.

To realize all these realities, we need domestic industry, and it makes the nation a new one.

And it requires new systems of society and nation to build all new civilization upon it.

We now have liberalism, competition principles, a Free economic system, and a free trade system, which are the laws of any basis of all reality and the world.

However, our future must be based on new systems and technologies that create new civilizations. We may need to consider new world systems, which should be the foundation of a new future.

We may know that all human resources, talent, and highly educated people must seek an answer to reality. This is why we are trying to pursue and build a new world.

All academics help create and make any reality that has all the new progress. All these realities are expanding to make participation in the whole universe possible.

These new reality transformations can be organized into teams to make it happen. Plans and actions can be put into place to clarify the purpose and goals and foster and build the new reality

.