

Abandonment of Existing Weapons Standards

KURODA International

Takeshi Kuroda

Realize the maintenance of all weapons, with the development of all weapons exceeding the development standards of the United States by two generations.

These are clear realizations that space weapons are superior to them in practicality.

All these require self-industry under plan and decision.

Do plan gives realization.

There are changing all standards of the nation and determines of politics realize them.

All shifts require an understanding of politics that gives all revolutionary change.

A shift in standards in the intelligence services and all political realities urgently calls for a shift in self-standards and planning over revolutionary change. It must be clearly understood that a plan is a promise of its realization.

So see all federation surrounding their politics in the United States that permit their presence in the world.

We need the same or more that what we have to work for.