

America's economic security and its response

Office of
KURODA International consulting
Takeshi Kuroda

Their strategy is based on developing and occupying the leading technology in their economy. Free trade system must guarantee all reality.

The factory is creating wealth, and inland of their nation, the highest production condition is provided under the top trend of the production environment.

The free trade system locks in these presences and creates perpetual widening inequalities. These are made under national industrial security.

All these are given under a free economic system. They have a victory by competition of economy.

We may reach the idea that all top technological industries are the core of national security.

We are required to build a plan for national security under its industry.

Retaining ownership in all domestic industries, forming an autonomous economic zone in self-sufficiency, and developing domestic enterprises in closed markets must be considered. These will translate into building a unified currency area.

This shows that we need our economic group to settle any world reality.

We can take a chance. It is the division of all regions of the world in economic spheres, and the embrace of self-philosophy presents a shift to a new world power map and relationships.