

Birth rate and new society

KURODA International

Takeshi Kuroda

To see France, they have a birth rate of 2.0 people, which gives an accurate idea of how we must seek its society and life.

As we have new technology and system. We have all new possibilities to rebuild a contemporary society under the proper understanding.

To see the life and society of France, they have their environment of culture and life. Even with the social system. We must consider what they have, and we need to build our society.

Only then new systems and technology may ask for its use. That even give us an idea that politics must make its agreement to ask all its tails of reality.

Coexistence in a society full of order and nature requires the creation of a new society and life by using new technologies and systems, again demanding urban planning based on an affluent life.

These are the recreation of its society in the nation. Due to the new reality, politics is asked for its new plan and decision.

These are the proof France may ask for his success in their society. That means we have to follow them in any reality of life.

We can find that basic human life may give the correct birth rate.