

Creation of the next society

KURODA International

Takeshi Kuroda

Any reality as a society must rebuild under the standard of society 5.0. Core capitals are moving forward under the next society.

These rebuild all industries under access by politics and transition to the reality of the nation's all future in its capital.

These are changing any reality of nation and bases we recreate education systems.

Technology and systems must ask its use for society and life.

Since we are asking for a new reality, we need bases as core academic capitals, which means we need a few constructions of an academic city.

Tails of academics mean we have to have all bases to create new realities. That must be given under political consensus.

Must gather all human sources and any cooperation to the world.

The new standard must be under participation in space, and it measures all a nation's decisions.