

KURODA International

Create the future

Dealing with China's siege and opinions on the military regime in Myanmar

KURODA International Foundation

Takeshi Kuroda

The solution in China calls for a return to the world in solving human rights issues. Human rights issues enable new participation in the international community with the acceptance of the Commission on Human Rights in the United Nations and the full permission of the proposal.

In Myanmar, the solution equally involves the acceptance of the United Nations Commission on Human Rights and the solution in the debate. Proposals by the Commission are subject to full permission.

They deny these justifications in the events behind the world as new world order and want to re-search for the construction of a humane self-world in the self and cooperation with the world.

These would like to propose new principles in the world of debate and debate as a last decision when the military solution is.

These realize participation in the framework of the new world in expressing own attitude. The difficulty in these is that the world has different realities, but it is not in vain to seek participation in the world at best.

These can propose cooperation on their own but the world of conflict.

In addition, discussions can be newly sought for solutions in open discussions such as the United Nations General Assembly.