Development and participation in space technology

KURODA International Foundation

Takeshi Kuroda

The decision and development of full-scale participation in space in political decisions. Invest in bases and development environments, and realize space development in the gathering of human resources. These new technologies will be diverted to the military and life, and will create a new technological civilization.

These seek a development environment in practicality in political decisions, and participate in space based on cooperation with space, along with the preparation of the agreement.

The creation of a space agency with the participation of all Asia opens its infinite possibilities on the basis of cooperation and agreement with space beings.
