These are to participate in the world market in fairness and social responsibility in free trade rules. These are required to participate in new markets in building correct corporate ethics.

The justice and rules of the world, which have their roots in the West, give their unity today with advanced systems.

It is possible to deny these, but it is also possible to absorb their correct understanding and philosophical ethics and to engage in new self-participation.

The global trend is to standardize the shared standardization of new corporate responsibility and core competence in free trade, build an economy in future technologies and systems along with the trend of IOT, and standardize the market in the development base of super power. There are winners and losers.

These are the birth of a new elite in the market. These cutting-edge academics and the reality of the MBA system are trends, and there are kings who reign at the top. These are the births of a new class society.

The reality of ownership, capital power, gives the reality that that capital expands with investment. Capital power owns the economy in truth. This is capitalism.

Market principles always demand that cutting edge. These competitive principles give birth to winners.

This dynamism gives that excitement and glory to reality. The kings who won the competition. The king gets everything. Kings in the monetary economy.

This economism is all about reality. Its competitive principle gives the most uplifting. However, it is always the workers who support this.
