

Economy

January 21st, 2025

KURODA International Consulting LLC

Takeshi Kuroda

The economy adds richness to your life. Therefore, when creating new wealth in society, the planned development and construction of industries can make it possible to develop this new wealth.

Finance is the backbone of all economies, and some may not possess it. These are the foundations for developing a healthy economy.

The connection between society and the economy can be achieved by focusing on geographical factors and national self-sufficiency. Sound economic policies can also be implemented by fostering a healthy relationship with finance.

Today's economic transformation can bring about a new economic renaissance based on digitalization and new productivity and efficiency.

These proposals call for planning in the economy instead of a liberal economy.

They also reaffirm the need for political presence and the development of an economy based on self-finance, as the economy is the foundation of self-security.

I also believe that the correlation between society and the economy will enable a shift toward the creation of a new culture and way of life and that, based on the principle of competition, it will be possible to realize this change through planning and political involvement in economic construction.

These are correct political judgments regarding the importance of the economy.

Cutting-edge technology and systems may bring progress to the nation and society. This is why politics needs consensus for the economy to recreate the country and culture as livelihoods.