We must know that hope is the only choice and direction in any reality. And this is a proper decision for all politics.

And we need to realize all its hopes with the world. These are the right political choices.

A righteous world is only from hopes. All these are the attitudes that all politicians should ask of themselves.

As I mentioned, this is an everlasting truth we need to know.

Only then, we can find the world with the hopes of all people. And it is the world itself as we try to make all efforts.

These are the recreation of the world with all new potentials for the future.

We are beside all the world's new progress, and we may dream of a new future with them.

But instead, with all reality we spend with a world, where can we find all hopes? There are nowhere we have any hopes.

This is why we propose and insist in all politics to make a new world.

And new relationships and cooperation as new participation with the universe may have a right to the future.

We have all dialogue with any conscience of the world, which may share the same world and the future.

Under all these circumstances, we have proposed any ideas and visions. We have tried to consult the world from our office.
