Takeshi Kuroda

These are the liberal camps that have the creation of the world in humanity. This majority gives reality along with the distance from other powerful nations. The liberal camp continues to propose its own clear world vision.

Also, the reality of the New World Order has complete world ownership. These are all realities and the basis for exploring a new world.

These can offer new global creation in a new vision. These are the realities of the struggle between liberalism and power, which can present the world with a shared agreement on symbiosis and reconciliation.

From the composition of all these conflicts, we believe that the transition to a new world unity in a shared agreement can suggest that possibility.

In addition, for the formation of the third pole, I would like to propose a new idea in harmony and coexistence and take responsibility for the new world.

These would like to propose self-participation in the new world in the new world order.
