

From the pursuit of national interests to participation in global cooperation and shared responsibilities

January 21st, 2025

KURODA International Consulting LLC

Takeshi Kuroda

These changes have transformed the world's power map from conflict to unification. We are trying to share all new consensuses and international principles under all-new proposals.

All these are cooperation under sharing equal responsibility for the world.

With any leadership of all politics, we are trying to give new unification and cooperation to the world.

Responsibility may find a new world under new world systems where we adhere to all the world's cautions. This would include any problems we have today.

But to take all responsibility, we have new decisions for the world as we seek a new future.

With all the above, we may find new ways to cooperate with the world and demonstrate our ability to work together.

And these are the tails of new dialogue, which has new decisions for the world.

We may find that the world must be changed under a new consensus and reality under sharing all these responsibilities.

Then we could insist and propose to solve all conflicts and problems of the world to shift the world new.

One politician must insist on all these new realities to change the world.

And he can realize all these new realities and international principles.

Gifted all these new worlds must serve all new possibilities to all peoples.