

My dream

May 6th, 2024

Kuroda International Consulting

Takeshi Kuroda

We may imagine that all people hold their livelihood and dream in reality as the future. And all politics takes responsibility for it.

Under the responsibility of politics, we can't make even a failure of its participation of the people in the future.

And all new technology promises us a new future.

Then, we have a choice to design the future. These are the reality of politics.

To expand our steps and dreams into the universe, what should we find in the coming future?

All these are reality to be given to all politics to recreate the world under their decisions.

Through collective efforts and the sharing of technological advancements, we have the potential to reshape our world. This collaboration could even propel us towards the vast expanse of the universe.

Under all these new realities, we can redesign the world with a new system and society.

All these are determined by all new consensus and actions of all politics.

We dare to take all responsibility and give all new batons to all new children.

From any history of this planet, we are facing all its excitement and future. We are making a new step into the universe.

All these are the evolutionary changes we will see in the future. And we have to know all these are the decisions of all politics.