

New social system

Kuroda International

Takeshi Kuroda

These are the creation of the next society. They require new philosophy. All new technology has a use for a new society. Politics may ask its decision.

New philosophy must explain a gap in wealth and social problems. That means it must solve all these problems.

Basic income could be a base of a new society and life. Technology may ask its improve efficiency at a low cost of living.

Politics may ask for its decision and plans for a new future. There are new worlds that force us to have new visions and measures.

Since all these are from a political decision that gives more than any possibility as it is called future.

These are the new hope we may share. That means we need a new system under construction in its infrastructure with the latest technology.

There is a word from the USA called frontier spirit. We are following their customs.

The new investment must be under the new standard in society 5.0 in any measure of building and product.

As politics and nation are for the people, politics may work for the people.

We may dream of the future and share it with all races and nationalities.
