They have all their history in a wealth of emperors. As we see today, all are poor and suffer, but we may see new rich. In the world's reality, what they are seeking is that we must know.

To see all eyes of people, we may see their hopelessness of themselves. The free economic system makes their people crazy, but on the other hand, we may see all the poor stare their eyes at the rich.

How many heroes do they have in their history, and how many are staying remain? Out of suitable means, out of hopes. I have to ask its question the money is only worth it.

In fear, do they have to spend themselves in their future? Do they have any right to ask themselves about their dreams?

It means less may not be lifeless. But out of hope how they may ask for their nation.

But all are related to world reality and what they have to spend themselves within. This comes with power politics that give only a winner grace.

This is an opposition from the world's wealthy to their poor. God does not give them a sake, meaning they have to ask for their steps.
