Takeshi Kuroda

We propose a new future for national independence and self-defense with the aim of providing advanced living and a basic living environment to all people. The new living environment in Basic Income seeks a national management system in the transition to a sound tax system and system. The efficiency and systematization of political management will build a new national image in the political organization and environment in advanced technology.

These are the transitions that the reality of the future has in the new world, and politics will take the lead in realizing it.

The transition to a new social system will seek agreement in local politics and will realize social development centered on smart cities and the transition to new information infrastructure in IOT.

Participation in the world as a world political party builds a cooperative relationship with the unification of the world and the agreement of the world government as an agreement with political parties in the world.

Proposing equal opportunities to all citizens for political participation provides local and central politics with their aspirations and participation in the agreement on the platform.
