

Providing advanced housing for all citizens

KURODA INTERNATIONAL FOUNDATION
Takeshi Kuroda

Providing cutting-edge housing for all people in a political consensus will enable the creation of new societies and lives.

These will improve the corporate environment in the involvement of politics, mass-produce the production of housing building materials in advanced technology, and provide housing in IOT, all-electricity to all the people with the maximum cost reduction in mass production.

These will bring about new fiscal stimulus along with the issuance of government bonds, which will be realized in political decisions and plans.

These will be planned and realized along with the development of a new society, the development of a core city in a smart city, and the development of a new nation.

Office to access the world.