

Consideration for corona vortex and proposal for after corona

KURODA International Foundation

Takeshi Kuroda

Corona expansion seeks solution in the vaccine and results in a transition to after-corona. However, these changes in reality are clearly large, and changes such as changes in the human mind and the creation of new lifestyles can be considered in the after-corona.

I think that these will explode the creation of a new society and life in the after-corona. Political changes in fiscal borrowing in politics, new realities in international affairs, etc. are conceivable.

These are the current technological and social innovations that are greater than imagined, and they give a great deal of change to businesses and social life.

These should cause disparity and confusion on the other hand. The elite in the world have the reality of monopolizing their wealth.

If the world has the existence of the richest and the poorest and seeks a comparison on the principle of equality, is that correct? Philosophy must give it the right answer. These make all the justice of the world empty. We should ask all people if these are the right or wrong. They also have a new hierarchy in the world.

Politics is required to answer this and take responsibility for the world.

The creation of a new world should resolve these contradictions and have the ideal of paradise.