

Social differences in the world

Society is a gathering of lives. These difference in societies now exist in all regions.

A good society and life attracts all the aspirations.

Today, the political presence creates society. In the past, there was a voluntary and hobit eternity of reality. This is because the concept of time is different in primitive and modern societies in the fusion with nature.

In all different societies, commonality and rules are different in all societies. This is a very clear proof of culture and civilization.

The world has that unity in globalization today. The international community is based on unified rules and reality.

The past has wars in all regions. War has always existed in the struggle for its profits.

Today the world has a new reality of Western justice. The battle of humanity really existed in the 20th century.

The intersection of society in scholarship gives the progress of modernity. This is because ethics and humane judgment gave modern creation.

These gave with Britain's world domination in the 19th century a new concept of the reality of Westernism and justice.

This is the same reality of heroes in Hollywood movies today.

These are the unification of the world in reality, and the world seeks a further future.
