

Sociology

We have ancient ages, and all society has self-grown to reach modernity. Society is gathered under life. They are all common laws in any society.

We have a variety of selves and see progress from each of them. These are seeking all improvement of life and society in any history.

There are different agreements among society in all differences of selves. That causes a variety of cultures.

West occupy the standard of all reality as they seek themselves with the growth of western studies.

Style of life asks for its comfortability and symbolizes the king of all regions. The idea of populism and liberalism serve the wealth of life to its people, and religious trust exists for them. Philosophy as it asks for progress that builds commonality in society.

In Greek, it is ancient. They considered themselves and the world. These are the bases of Western studies. England of its empire when they covered the world we own commonality in the whole world that continuously remains today.

People had not had the permission of self and live in the past ages. But covered by philosophy as liberalism permit self and reality. That must be all the reason peoples fight under this idea.

We find that measure of progress as superiority asks under the unification of the world. We see that the Western camp has a decision in the world. The new reality in modernization is justice that covers all reality. As survival occupies any reality in the past, we see all progress of technology today.

There are ancient hobbits in society, but they progressed under theoretical calculations. Sociology is how society grows and goes under any concern in the world, and standardization gives us an idea that progress is a common word we may seek in the future.