

The foundation of world with equality and recommendations for the future

Kuroda International Foundation

Takeshi Kuroda

As for the provision of life, society and the world provide self-permanence as well as social learning. Guaranteeing livelihoods and providing a lifelong learning environment in local administration provides social management and construction and protection of livelihoods. These are managed by the local government. The national politics is responsible for the operation and maintenance of the state.

These are agreements that all beings will participate in the future, and together with political agreements, will realize the creation of a new world.

They seek a new world framework and do what the world has in its own health and permanence.

The lack and loss of basic life is the lack of social ability, and these ensure that the local government guarantees a basic life in the development of an excellent educational environment and social learning environment in the education of children.

Mandatory and free university education creates a new nation and society. These will share new self-standards with the nation and build a new society and life in the diversion of next-generation technology to life.

The new possibilities they have, along with their participation in the universe, can make the future a reality. In addition, the foundation of basic income enables the creation of a new world by politics agreeing to guarantee of lives.