

KURODA International

Create the future

Guidelines for World Participation

KURODA International Foundation

Takeshi Kuroda

Participation in the world in its own concept seeks separation, gathering and dispersal, and participates in the world in its diplomacy and cooperation. Participation in the world in equal diplomacy and independence gains the creation of a society in a new philosophy as well as the new development of its own country.

Infringement of the freedom of others is unacceptable. This is participation in a new world of independence and responsibility.

These are to build one's philosophy and realize participation in the world in politics in one's own country.

A plan in politics is a promise of its realization. Recognizing that any reality is possible, we will realize the soundness of our own finances and cost performance together with advanced technology, and realize the construction of our own society to the highest standards in the world.

A good relationship with the United Nations agrees to share its ethical judgment.

The gentleman attitude in diplomacy proposes world participation in adult relationships and responsibilities.