Sharing of position data on the map

The display of self and friend location data on a map provides recognition and sharing of that self's location.

These provide a service of displaying location information on a map in a search or contact. For access to GPS data, we would like to display location data and propose an environment linked with communication services and SMS.

These can be proposed for various uses such as living demand in cities and location management for children.

KURODA INTERNATIONAL