3 respectable action as found within Chinese history

KURODA International Foundation

Participation in the world is self-respect for the world. 3 respectable action as found within Chinese history to the nation is the ancient Chinese way of ritual.

This means that water flows from high to low. It can propose a new idea to the world for the self in Western materialism and superiority in the principle of competition.

This is the way the world in history ends its war in two ways. Realization in armed forces and solution in intelligence.

The realization of a new world in reconciliation and cooperation is possible in dialogue and consensus.
