Breaking the reality in diplomacy

Participation in reality calls for a breakthrough in new foreign policy. The Free and Open Indo-Pacific Strategy is a bastion of the liberal camp for World War III. Behind it is the New World Order.

They should present new ideas, accept them, and confront reality. If both sides raise justice, they will have equal confrontation, and the acceptance of the world in justice will force all nations to make their own choices.

These must prove their justice in their own nation. It is not possible to obtain the people's will in the world in the detention of democratic activities such as human rights issues and the detention of human rights activists. Emotional outbursts are the same as in Japan and Germany in World War II. It always seeks self in calm and is required to deal with reality.

To get the will of the people is to have the world. Those revolutionary battles will surely succeed.

It is to be no false in one's justice.
