

A new measure for an economy

KURODA International Consulting

Takeshi Kuroda

As GDP is all measure and we believe it creates wealth in life. But we are asking for a new measure from social infrastructure and industry independence, comfortability with energy, capital strength, etc.

The economy must affect life. There are all administrative plans and actions. There is a new reality in the economy that all new technology and system create the future.

If all competition that we are trying to get away from and seeking wealth in life and society, That could be an all measure for reality as with an economy.

These are the new consensus that we are trying to build a society with a nation. But we must know that a global economy and free trade system exist. That we may not be away from.

We could find an idea that new socialism and basic income system could be based on all the above reality.

The change in times needs new investment in social infrastructure and new transportation and communication system. All these must be from own capitalized of all its industries. It shows that politics must take the lead for a society called society 5.0.

As we may reach that, industrial security is required if we put ourselves into reality and the world. All these ideas could force us to make new consensus and plans for the future.

These are all protection of own society and life as all international financial group.

Even as so as these are the right measure for the construction of the richness of life and society and its necessity.

All these are the idea that we are trying to avoid all competition and seek a future of self and society. We are trying to build on society and life systems under political consensus.