

A world with zero environmental impact

KURODA International Consulting

Takeshi Kuroda

There must be required to hold the same consensus with the world to seek a future. That is all necessary for us to share the same agreement.

A new world with new rules. That we could work for the world.

If we dare to seek the world and the future continuously, we find a world in the future where we find all necessities with.

We may ask for the decision of the world. If we ask for a suitable proposal to the world, we may ask for all pleasure and honor.

All new consensus is a new rule for the new world. The law is an agreement that we could ask for the future. We must ask for all dialogue to seek a shape of the world.

We have all social poverty and the collapse of morals, and we need a world with zero environmental impact.

We could wonder a new world with a new elite. Is that a world we idealized in our dreams? Or as we propose the world that we idealized.

We find that all existing is collapsed, but who is trying to build a world with his dream?

Suppose politics ask about the consequences to the future. What is an ideal?

Rules and laws are all agreements we share with all new realities. That means we could ask for a new world.

These are the little possibilities we make for all challenges to the world.

That the world could reach the same agreement as we propose a new governing of the world under all new deal.