

Agreeing on global responsibility

January 16th, 2025

KURODA International Consulting LLC

Takeshi Kuroda

The West has monopolized global presence because it takes full responsibility for the world itself in its conscience.

However, today's reality presents them with a significant contradiction.

Therefore, I believe it is possible for an Asian alliance to share that responsibility for the world and, through these agreements, to explore a new world.

This will immediately lead to the realization of a new world, and these revolutionary changes and the construction of the future promise to realize this new world through new cooperation with the universe.

These are proposals for a new world in conscience.

Any decisions are equally served for us, so we have proposed all new ideas and visions to the world.

And politics do make it with reality.

We may know that responsibility can give a new world to reestablish all realities.

These are the new consensus of the world under new cooperations.

We are asking all politicians to make the world new.

If this is the last moment we must decide, what should be your decision?

And we may know that decision is the future itself.