In all bases of society and livelihood, education makes a people. And the people make a nation.

A nation is always based on people because people make them and do it.

To carry the future, we have to grow up people in a righteous way. Righteous beings only give a nation rights.

Education may not be a way to make a tool. But correct self-cultivation means being able to provide the proper self and future in one's choices.

And a nation faces any reality of the world. We find the necessity of independence. Then we see all the requirements of its country.

The development of industries that support people's lives requires the development of all sectors in their own countries in the context of globalization and free trade systems, which are necessary for political and economic policies. These are the same in the training of military and space technology.

Politics always realize any reality under their decision.

We need detailed plans that must describe any vision for the future.

The source of all motivation can definitely become a reality in the future.

If we have a king, he does make all his visions. And it makes a future.

We have to ask for all skills and abilities. It gives them the possibility to make all visions.

Under the world reality and politics, running a nation can only be allowed under political skills. As we see all the truth we have in the world, we need suitable human sources and a political environment on its basis.
