Power dictates all decisions. This is a reality we are confronting in Ukraine. Their priority is to end wars and protect the lives of their citizens.

We must acknowledge that President Trump, along with Elon Musk, has significantly impacted the world. The latest question is how humanity makes its decisions under the influence of humanism.

Humanity is a universal value and the foundation of Western ethics.

We can infer that the world is divided between these two distinct realities, both of which require visions for the future.

All of these should serve as opportunities for us to broaden our perspectives as much as possible through new diplomatic actions that align with our global visions.

Justice, often referred to as power, should not be embraced by the world, even as it seeks to dominate all aspects of life.

Under the current circumstances of the world, conscience may guide us toward the right decisions and agreements when we engage in diplomacy.

These present significant opportunities for us to explore future possibilities. We can reshape the world according to our ideals and visions.

With all of the above, we are striving to create new dialogues for the world, which may lead to a new reality.

Politics encompasses all decisions, which serves as evidence that they are the rulers.
