Only an independent permit decision of oneself. They had their defeat in World War 2nd. If we do not have our independence, we have to follow any decision from others.

Then we finally know that a nation's independence is our only priority to the world.

Then we can find that, with a nation's independence, we may see the future without any direction from others.

These are all requirements of national politics, and we may know how they shall ask themselves with a world.

Under all these points of view, domestic politics must seek national security under the independence of the self.

If national security and self-sufficiency are required today, then politics must act decisively to do just that.

Under all these bases, we may be permitted for the first time to ask for any alliance with the world under any consensus and principles since their independence causes them.

We may know these are primary requirements of any politics we have to work, and from all these points of view, we find all enemies in a nation by all nations.

These are all the difficulties with domestic politics. But if we dare to serve all citizens of a nation, we have to take full responsibility for them.

And these are all the requirements of all politics where they may find themselves.

We face the world's reality today and must decide on it.
