

America's new tariff policy towards China and the changes and responses in the world

November 16th, 2024

Kuroda International Consulting LLC

Takeshi Kuroda

All these are shifts to a new reality in the world. The world must ask for its new framework. However, in China, domestic demand can solve all these changes with its massive demand in the nation's inland.

From the point of view of the free trade system, reconstructions are possible to remake the new rule of the world.

And we are facing all new demands of new diplomacy—any crisis in the Far East may instead of all new alliances in the regions.

We may not follow any reality but must insist on a new world framework. This is the redesigning of the world.

It is foreseeable that American unilateralism will allow the self-assertion of all nations in the world and provide a transition from Pax Americana to a new world order. Therefore, it is possible to propose a new world framework.

The new reality that every nation asserts itself is a change in American hegemony. These changes can make proposing and accepting a new world framework possible.

We all know that there is control of the world under any realities, such as military and finance.

Then, the choice of all representatives and nations may cause the new reality as the new world.

We have proposed a new world from our office to the world. If you are interested in all these ideas, there are possibilities to gain any reality in the world.

Trying to make a new world is not a worthless effort but any progress of the world by any means and works.