

American Unilateralism and the New World Framework

November 14th, 2024

Kuroda International Consulting LLC

Takeshi Kuroda

This is the new change that President Trump brings to the world.

And we may know without any doubt there are world plans which the world follows. But if we try to create and make a new world, we may have our choices against the world.

The future is under any creation of uncertainty based on all our choices. This is why we have proposed all new ideas and world visions.

Power is all justice. We may find all the reality of the world. But we may have all our judgment against the world to make everything new.

These are the collapse of existence but the appearance of a new future. We need all our visions to seek and make for our future.

The world changes. This is why we must make all our realities into a new world.

With new visions and philosophies, we can create a new reality. We may agree that progress is all we are trying to achieve in the future.

We can follow all reality, but we may also create all reality. These are our choices in the world.

Politics may design and lead all of the world's realities. Within any consensus of international society, we may argue and propose new ideas.

Under American Unilateralism, we may propose the New World Framework based on a new philosophy.

Change is all we have with the reality of the world today. We are moving to a new future, which is why we have all its changes. And we may cause them to all have new futures.