WALLET

We propose a smart money wallet that has all Crispo currency deposit environments and digital currency deposit environments. These are provided as smart money wallets in society, and along with Crespo currency remittances, these are proposed as WALLETS.

These propose a next-generation money system for smartphone applications and IC cards, and the development of standards will realize the proposal as new smart money.

These require a unified standard for touch payments in local currencies, performing equivalent conversion with Crispo currency, and providing a payment environment.

These require new banking systems, account or cashing machine withdrawal environments, and proposals as new money systems.

These various Crispo currencies can offer practicality and allow users to choose their currency and realize its global use.

By providing a banking environment, these can offer the convenience of smart money and realize proposals as a new money system.

These can apply the existing Crispo currency remittance environment and digital currencies to provide a new digital currency operating environment.
