

Called a top industry with its challenge

February 22nd, 2024

KURODA International Consulting

Takeshi Kuroda

The industry creates any weapon and space reality. That is all necessary for economic policy in the future.

The irony of economic security is to keep all these presences in the future. As we seek our futures, we need our industry.

Raising $10 trillion in funds and seeking to foster all advanced industries is a nation's future.

A nation needs all industries under the most progressed system and manufacturer. That gives only permission to participate in reality.

These are the correct understanding of national management and the only option to give us independence.

All these are the requirements of national plans and decisions to step into a new world reality.

Industry and domestic capital produce all-new space technology and military weapons, and a development environment is needed for national security. And it creates wealth for a nation. Academic bases them all. To prepare for all these environments is a decision to ask for one's steps into the world's reality.

To face all its power games, we must make the right decision. The economy gathers its capital; these are the truths of the free trade system.

There are economic wars. These are occupations involving the highest technology. National security makes itself with military and industry through technology that expands to the universe.

Equal standing point is the only permission we find in a world where we need ourselves with all our effort.

