

Challenge

February 27th, 2025

KURODA International Consulting LLC

Takeshi Kuroda

We are trying to offer a new world to the world. These are all our office habits when facing the world.

The new world system and principles must ask their progress in light of the realities we face regarding the evolution of livelihoods.

Progress is a matter for which we need a new world system and principles. Philosophy has an answer.

Today, we face many new changes that seek a new future. But under these circumstances, politics must determine itself in the new world.

A new future is promised through the innovative use of technologies and systems. In addition to the previous description, we need our fundamentals guided by a new philosophy. These elements contribute to creating a new world with a fresh future.

This is how we can reach the next generation of civilization and life within future societies.

We need to reconstruct all reality to shift all reality to the above-mentioned. All these have a reason that all basis of any progress must ask for a new philosophy, which is all from our progress itself.

We may reach new world principles and frameworks that may tail any of the reality of the future.

These are new creations of any realities under political leadership and their new consensus.

New world systems may be under the creation of all ideals and as we have proposed from our office which you have to try with all your efforts.,