

Conflicting futures of nationalism and reconciliation

Kuroda International Consulting

Takeshi Kuroda

Those who fail go as Nazis. That means we need a victory and vision for the world.

These are the difference between nationalism and reconciliation so that we can choose reconciliation.

Nationalism asks for its conflict and wars. But reconciliation could ask for all unifications. There are all decisions we can ask from the world.

There is all separation of any realities into two divided worlds. Those are under its choice we are trying with the future.

The Western camp has new world order with its tail. All this truth must be considered under any decision of self.

If we appear our world vision, that means we give a new world instead of new world order. How a reflection of the world we could expect?

And it gives to create a new reality in the world. That means we have all new possibilities we can work for the world.

And all these reconciliations could ask for new cooperation and rules so we could share the same realities in the future.

Nationalism is all result of failure from the world. We may ask for the world as a result of the victory.

Who wins always takes a world. That is all agreement of the world.