

Consensus building at the G20

Takeshi Kuroda

Under the creation of the new world, we are trying to build a consensus in G20.

By gathering any representatives of nations, we may argue and reach an entire agreement on the new world.

On the other hand, we have a choice called the world war 3rd. Any consequences of any representatives are different from these.

If we agree on the conference, we can make our world.

This is an agreement of unification of the world under any agreement of all representatives. We make our vision to the world.

The agreement is presented to the world as a declaration meant to control the world.

This is a choice of who possesses the world. We are trying to keep the world under our hands.

In these efforts, the stage will shift to the United Nations General Assembly, and we will clearly realize securing the world and building a new world. We also want to clarify a new contract with space during the G20 period and agree to fully secure the world.
