Following power has a history with the contrasting reality of righteousness. For them, these are choices for the future.

In their history, they are facing the future. That means they need to make their own decision of themselves.

In their reality, the following power existed and was tolerated along with self-interest.

But on the other hand, there was the desperate suffering of people.

If they are enslaved to reality, they will never know the truth that the future is only a choice.

The People's Revolution was accepted by the people in these realities.

These believe that choices called people can give them a new future.

And in their history, hope may not be found easily but difficulty. But a new future must offer light to all people.

The development of technology promises a new future, and a break with the past can make it possible to create a new future.

The despair of the past is their truth, and the hope of the future in return is always the right choice.

The conflict between civilizations is nothing more than the pursuit of power.
