Dialogue, a remarkably potent tool, holds the immense potential to bridge even the most deeply entrenched conflicts, instilling a sense of hope and optimism in our shared future.

Under humanism, we may have the same idea against any reality and the truth of the world and history. That is all proof that we are the same human.

Our proposal is not just a solution but a beacon guiding us toward a future we can shape. It is a call to action, inspiring and motivating us to seek a better world.

This is the answer from Kuroda International Consulting to the World. We may insist on the new world.

And this is a way for us to reach the peace. We propose a new consensus of all politics,

And then, we can share our hopes. That must be all our new steps into the universe.

We may seek the world that we have today with pain and suffering but all new hopes and dreams.

If disappointment results from laziness, we need to work hard. Then, we may find a new world.

We may find a truth when we stare at the eyes of all people.

Politics has any possibility of making a new world. If they ask for all their efforts, the world must be changed.

In international society, we may propose a new consensus that does not conflict but shares the same ideas and visions.
