

Conversation with the world

December 1st, 2024

KURODA International Consulting LLC

Takeshi Kuroda

To ask and seek for a new world, we have tried to make all its conversation with the world. We may wonder who may have an answer.

We were trying to develop new ideas, which could be any design for the world's future. We could ask who is interested in it.

But any reality we have with the world can't be denied, so we ask for all changes.

We have insisted that choice is a reality we may find in the future. And politics makes it.

So if we could seek consulting with all kings, called politicians, we may have all the ideas for the world.

We may find that the discussion and argument are all agreed upon. It is a vision of the world's future.

All power games bring tragedy to all people. This is the only reason we need a real politician.

To make a righteous world is our duty to all people. So we asked all these consensuses to all politics.

We are facing the future, but we all know the future is not with all hopes but disappointment. So, any action of all politics must be required.

But if we can have a new future, we may cooperate with the universe and its aliens in an entirely new way.

These are the last challenges for us to argue with the world to find hope for the future.