Under the new measure of Society 5.0, we are trying to reestablish the region's reality in the future. Domestic industry must cover them all, and politics make its direction.

We dare to decide to shift to the new future. And we are trying to propose a new world.

We will bring together talented regional bureaucrats, create detailed plans, and realize regional revitalization.

And we have to know the plan is an all-new future design.

Next-generation transportation systems must connect all regions, such as a Hyperloop, new car systems, and airplanes. All these are prepared under domestic standards and industries.

All these are based on the national financial plan. Massive investment must be gathered from a region.

All these means we build new realities under domestic capital and industries.

Next-generation society comes with new technology and systems, as well as new potentials and livelihoods.

We are facing new possibilities with new technology and systems. We will make all use of them in the future.

They all participate in any human resources they seek for the future.

Politics holds its decision. And it makes the future.
