

Creating new abundance

December 2nd, 2024

KURODA International Consulting LLC

Takeshi Kuroda

All new technologies and digitalization give all new efficiency in any reality of society. And it is the progress of all reality with new abundance.

New societies, lifestyles, systems, and realities result from the progress of the ages.

We see that an economy with free economic systems creates all these. We can find that the creation of abundance is all from economies.

Politics may plan the future according to a new design. The economy and all its industries should accept all new cooperation.

We see that there is the next society with all its progress in systems and technologies. And the leadership of politics may realize them in a world.

We can find a reconstruction of all reality possible under all its changes and progress, and we may base them on new social systems.

Shift to the future is all changes in society and lives. These are possible under political consensus.

And it is possible to redesign the society and the nation. It is all new progress in any reality using technology and systems.

New systems may create new possibilities in any field of reality, and they are causing all the latest changes in society and livelihood.

These are the results of all academic progress, which make them a new reality in any field of society or nation.

And politics can lead them all under its decisions and plans.