

Creation of the future

March 21st, 2024

Kuroda International Consulting

Takeshi Kuroda

Reestablishment of the world that we insist on. New technology gives new civilization to the future.

We may seek a new system and rules. International society could agree with a new future.

We have a recreation of the world under new technology and share new world rules and laws. The economy and business may be changed under new regulations and agreements. Even capitalism must be reconsidered to make a new world.

We need to share the world vision and all fundamentals of the world's progress, as we see these are according to any progress of academics and technologies.

These are the steps we can share with the world. Bureaucrats in all nations are called upon to participate in creating a new world.

We may seek new economic, trade, national security, and social systems. These are new rules and fundamentals of the future.

We could agree on a new governance of the world with a unified government. This would permit us to share the same future.

There are new possibilities that lying down in front of us all. These are all new steps into the universe and society with the latest technologies.

All these are the truths so that we can make new decisions.

Politics must lead them all and give us a decision of the world, even the creation of the earth itself.

Finally, we reach the future from any history. We need a new step into the world.

