

Creation of the new economy

December 4th, 2025

KURODA International Consulting LLC

Takeshi Kuroda

These are caused by fair rules and a system that may be accepted by all nations. Real economy and financial economy must find themselves with their mission for the world and all people. That requires ethics, but away from all money games.

We have all new considerations for the occupation of the wealth. But fairness and conscience may reach new rules and systems.

And we have a money game in the economy, but new rules must be considered by all gaps of wealth and need to guarantee fundamental livelihood.

The socialist idea of fair distribution of wealth calls into question the principle of competition and the free economic system.

To make any consideration for an economy, an economy is a tool to serve for life and society. And the above ideas are far from all competition, which causes all hierarchy.

And we now know that the economy is the basis that permits us to create the future as a new technological civilization. But with any systems we have today, finance may occupy them with their wealth.

All these are the requirements to prepare a new economy for the future. With the above, we have all the possibilities to rebuild a new world.

We need new rules for an economy since they are the ones that create new worlds and futures.

Urgently, we need to find all these ideas. The economy is what builds the world itself.

Any consensus may reach new systems and rule under any dialogue.