

Creation of the new society

KURODA International Consulting

Takeshi Kuroda

Under the standard of society 5.0, Politics determines new society under developing own industries. These are the last opportunity we are trying to develop domestic industries.

Under national industrial security, we need to establish the highest trend in any field.

As new money systems and social systems, administration IT systems are all bases of contemporary societies.

All these are stepping into new technological civilizations in the future.

As we may imagine, there are new lifestyles with the highest efficiency. IoT gives any communications a new core, and developing all new industries has a future.

These must be planned under political decision and consensus. All officials must give a plan with its details.

The new urban planning will build a unified system, society, and life-based on advanced systems and technologies in all local cities and regions.

All these actions expand even to militaries. All these are the technological revolution that must change and cover any field of our nation.

In space technology, technology can also be provided to the private sector, and a new technological civilization can be created. In these cases, the development of domestic industries is absolutely necessary.

These represent the absolute soundness of the nation, the mission of nurturing people through education, and the proposal of a new society and way of life that seeks purpose in life.