

Days after the future

September 7th, 2025

KURODA International Consulting LLC

Takeshi Kuroda

Creation of the world may be given under new determinations of all world politics. If we have any consultation with them, we may redesign the world for the future.

These are all new potentials we find today for the future. These are the possibilities and creation of new technologies. And a free economic system may ask for the creation of the future.

And we must know these are the creations under the progress of all academics. And we have to ask all users of them in any field of society and the nation.

And we can see that all progress of space technology may be settled under a new alliance and cooperation with the universe and its residents.

These are the choices we have today, and politics may renew all things, even all its systems, to adjust to the future.

These are the rim of all hands of new talent for their promise to make the world new.

All these are only permitted and accepted with the new systems of all realities. We have liberalism today with the core of all realities.

All progress must be adjusted to new systems with the realization of the future itself. These are the all-new arguments of international society that need to reach new world principles.

These are things that experts in each academic field can participate in and realize the creation of a new reality, and academicism itself makes reality possible.

And politics has its decision to realize all these potentials. This is why we need to ask them for their choices.