

Economic meltdown and new rules

KURODDA International Consulting

Takeshi Kuroda

To see the national finance of Japan, they may not repay the debt. As we see all new occurring in the coming future, the economy could ask for new rules.

Waiting for a new money system and economic rule are under all digitalized systems. And we could see all reconstruction of any realities by leading technology and systems.

As we could expect, new economic systems. We have an idea that massive capital and new technology may cover the world.

And all these balances of the economy must be collapsed to new realities.

There is a full of purpose to make reconstruction of the economic system. And money has control. We need to know that all realities started with capital borrowings.

But we have to be prepared for new systems. All business runnings need to clear new standard. These are with capital measures and technology, and product measures.

And then we would insist on new rules and systems from ourselves. And we have to see all new movements of the economy have a huge potential in the realities.

Without any doubt, new technological civilizations are waiting in the future. The economy gives them a reality.

In all these circumstances, politics may give his decision. We are permitted to create the future.

That gives us an idea that we need to protect our economy and systems to step into the future.

These are the right idea to make economic security. Politics can present reality as we must protect ourselves in our effort.