

Economic power

March 9th, 2025

KURODA International Consulting LLC

Takeshi Kuroda

The economy creates the future. And we now have all new technology and systems. All university bases may propose new progress, giving us a new reality of the future.

We may find that how we design is the future itself under any creation of economies. We need to possess them with domestic capital, which is a proper idea to make economic and national securities.

The politics of its economic policy is a rough sketch of a new reality that even gives us progress in military technologies. As even with space technologies.

Free economic systems encompass all laws and rules of the world, including capitalism, which allows for the possession of all realities.

We may arrive at the final idea of how to decide on all economic systems as they relate to financial realities. The economy serves as a lifeline and the foundation of all realities.

We also need all its basis with a philosophy that makes all calculations for all realities even from the past that is occupied by survival principles which contain all of economic habits.

We can identify the hierarchy of the economy that forms itself through technological advancements and capital investment.

We can also find all these realities are all from any progress of all teaching of university. So when we evolve all industries, we first need to prepare all its social environments.

If we can find how to make all the evolving of the economy, which is all from any motivation of all peoples, we finally find how we need to govern our nation and the world.

The economy is all tools that makes all progress of any realities today. But we may not follow them but use them for our livelihoods.

