

Education and the future

KURODA International Consulting

Takeshi Kuroda

You may imagine how the future may be changed if all people of China and India are given an education at university for all of theirs. And this is a way to provide them with a life and a future.

We find all values in the education system for all people to graduate from university. And we find that it gives us a future.

And we could prepare all new environment and systems. We may find all social differences, but it changes in contemporary society.

From the point of view, this is a suitable choice for a nation to give life and a future to everyone. As with the others, these create a country and the future.

We see all progress of western camps with their social systems. At least we need the same as they are.

Now we have the right measure for the world and the future.

We find this a proper action for a country to seek itself.

As we can see, then we are standing equal to the world. And all truth is that we must have the same condition as the world seeks.

As then we may reach a future as we have all celebration in new technologies.

And we find there is all progress of the social system is based on educational systems.

But we must be sure that all necessity is giving life and a future to all peoples, never allowed to use the people as an instrument in nationalism.